

Disclaimers: The Orchestral Recital Series of Tacoma presents a unique opportunity to perform as a soloist with an orchestra on a non-competitive basis. This document focuses exclusively on the repertoire described by Dr. Maurice Hinson as Intermediate (Int) or Intermediate to Moderately Difficult (Int to M-D). It is intended to be used as a reference to "Music for Piano and Orchestra, An Annotated Guide (Enlarged Edition)" from Indiana University Press (1993), for the purpose of discovering Piano and Orchestra works at these early levels of difficulty (see Rating).

Dr. Hinson displays a vast awareness of the repertoire available for Piano and Orchestra, from the standard repertoire for professionals to suitable works for children. His book is a reference to all of the works of which he was aware circa 1993. He provides many descriptions, and in some cases highlights works that he considers especially worth noting (see Gem). Any lack of description more likely indicates that he is not directly knowledgeable of a give piece, than it is an indication of any shortcomings. I cannot attest to the accuracy of any of these descriptors. I used my own judgement to interpret Dr. Hinson's comments regarding the Gems. I include them to help guide you through a wealth of choices found within the many hundreds of works labelled as Moderately Difficult and above. Please do not overlook works that lack an asterisk, there are certainly more gems to be found than asterisks!

I cannot comment about the availability, suitability, performance duration, or permissions required to perform any of these works unless they are already added to the ORS Repertoire List. If you find a work that you would like to pursue, it is up to you to find a source for the orchestral score. Once you have a source and choose to proceed, ORS will assist in helping you with these questions, and whether a new piece is feasible to perform with ORS (as an example, limitations due to orchestral difficulty or exotic instrumentation, long duration, and licensing concerns need to be resolved). It will also require an evaluation for appropriate fee, based on orchestra size and duration of the work. Once those questions have been resolved, the work will be added to our Repertoire List for future reference. We hope to grow this list, but help is needed.
